School Election Sept. 12

County Commissioners set a September 12 election date for voting on the proposed consolidation of the Milano and Cameron Independent School Districts. Voting will be in the high school gymnasium in Cameron and the Milano High School in Milano.

Absentee voting in the superintendent's offices at Milano and Cameron will begin Monday, August 24. Absentee votes can be cast Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Deadline for voting absentee will be Monday September 7.

Commissioners voted unanimously to set the election after checking signatures on petitions from each district asking for the consolidation election. The Milano petition carried 46 signatures (three original signers asked that their names be removed) and the Cameron petition had 36 signatures. Only 20 qualified voters from each district are required.

Voting will be "for" or "against" the consolidation proposal with voters placing an "X" in the square beside the statement indicating the way he wishes to vote.

Cameron School Superintendent D. R. Dodson said the request for consolidation came as a surprise to him.

"I received a call last week saying a petition had been signed by more than 40 qualified voters in the Milano School District requesting consolidation with Cameron." Dodson said. "I said we would welcome the consolidation and that I would see that a petition was circulated in Cameron and delivered to the office of the County Judge."

The consolidation would give the newly created district an enrollment of more than 2,000 students, close to the 2,600 student enrollment listed by the Governor's committee on Education as a minimum number to offer a balanced academic and vocational program.

Dodson said that if the consolidation election passed there would probably be no changes in the operation of the Milano school or personnel until the 1971-72 school year. "The most desirable plan would be to continue elementary grades in the present facilities at Milano," Dodson said. He indicated that enlarged high school curriculum would be the major benefit for both schools.

"The consolidation would also mean an expansion of special programs in lower grades and would make the new district eligible for consolidation incentive funds from the State.

"Although we didn't initiate the move for consolidation, our position is that if the Milano people want to consolidate we will certainly welcome them," Dodson said.

Teachers Pay Raise Hikes Total

A record $833,300 budget for the 1970-71 school year was approved by Cameron Independent School District trustees Thursday night. The figure does not include federal funds, estimated at $126,000.

Biggest item in the budget is $603,200 for teachers salaries, up about $78,000 from last year.

Estimated revenues for the new school year cite local taxes at $208,414 and debt service tax at $39,300 for a total of $247,714.

County sources will yeild $1,162.

State sources will be: per capita apportionment $167,400; foundation fund salary and operation $367,000; foundation fund incentive aid $18,800; supplemental salary aid $3,500; foundation fund transportation $33,000. Total state sources, $589,700.

Total revenue receipts are $838,576, allowing about $5,000 "cushion" or surplus over estimated expenses.

By specific division, budgeting of expenses reads:

ADMINISTRATION - Salaries $56,000; contracted services $5,000; other expenses $1,500. Total, $62,500.

INSTRUCTION - Salaries $603,200; library and audio - visual materials $4,000; teaching supplies $5,000; other expenses $3,000. Total, $615,200.

PUPIL TRANSPORTATION - Salaries $15,000; replacement of vehicles $1,545; transportation insurance $700; other expense for operation and maintenance $10,755. Total, $33,000.

PLANT OPERATION - Salaries $20,000; heat for buildings $5,000; other utilities $10,000; supplies $5,000; other expenses $300. Total $40,300.

PLANT MAINTENANCE - Contracted services $7,500; replacement of equipment $4,000; other expenses $5,000. Total $16,500.

FIXED CHARGES - Insurance and judgments $6,000; interest on current loans $500. Total $6,500.

STUDENT BODY ACTIVITIES - Expenditures to cover deficit of student activity account $5,000.

CAPITAL OUTLAY - from current revenue: buildings $10,000; furniture and equipment $5,000. Total $15,000.

DEBT SERVICE - Retirement of serial bonds $19,000; retirement of short term loans $8,000; interest on serial bonds $12,000; interest on short term loans $300. Total $39,300.

The new budget is up $124,495 from last year's budget of $708,805 (federal funds excluded).

Grasshopper Goes Urban

The recent grasshopper invasion in Cameron was termed an "accidental urbanization for the migrating insect" by County Agent J. D. Moore.

Moore said the grasshoppers are generally found along the river bottom land at this time of year. "It's possible that our bright new city lights attracted them to town this year," Moore said.

What ever brought them, they have been met with mixed reactions: Annoying to merchants who must sweep them from their store fronts each morning and to pedestrians who are startled when they find them on their shoulders, backs and trousers legs. But a treasure for fishing enthusiasts who have been making daily trips to town with boxes and bags to capture the grasshoppers to dangle on their fish hooks.

Moore said the grasshoppers are not a threat - they are looking for company, not food.

Service For Will Kuhn

Will B. Kuhn, 78, died at 2 p.m. Thursday in a local nursing home. He was a retired farmer and had lived in Cameron for the last 11 years.

Mr. Kuhn was born June 24, 1892 at Cistern, Texas.

Funeral Services were at 10 a.m. Saturday at the United Church of Christ, Ben Arnold, Rev. C. E. Wierth officiating. Burial was in the Burlington Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Kuhn of Cameron; 4 sons, Woodrow and Lee, both of Houston, Willis and Wayne of Cameron; 6 daughters, Mrs. Elvira Niekamp of Houston, Mrs. Leola Gerngross of Rosebud, Mrs. Lorene Green of Waco, Mrs. Evelyn Holcek of San Antonio, Mrs. Lucille Folschinsky of Pasadena, Mrs. Ann Jackson of Houston; 4 brothers, Adolph and Henry Kuhn of Rosebud, Rudy Kuhn of Eponville, Wash., Charlie Kuhn of Houston; 2 sisters, Mrs. Tony Vogelsang of Cameron, Mrs. Louise Weems of Jacksonville; 23 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Pallbearers were grandsons. Marek - Burns - Laywell Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Streets 'Off Limits ' To Mini-Bikes

Young mini - bike riders and their parents are being warned about riding the vehicles on local streets. Police and Texas Department of Public Safety officers emphasize that many are being ridden illegally.

According to the DPS, the operation of motorized go-carts and mini-bikes on public streets and roads is illegal, unless the vehicle is equipped with the equipment required for registration, and registered.

DPS Patrolman Milton Wright said a vehicle, such as a motor scooter or mini-bike, that has a brake horsepower of less than 5 can be operated by a licensed operator 15 years of age or older.

A motorcycle license is required for operating vehicles with a brake horsepower over 5, Wright said. The operator must be at least 16 years old with driver's ed, or 18 without driver's ed.

"Very few mini - bikes are equipped for registration," Floyd Tippit, DPS Safety Education Service officer said. "if they cannot be licensed, obviously they cannot be legally driven on the streets."

Main reason for the law is safety, DPS officers said. The vehicles are so small they are difficult to see. Without the necessary safety equipment such as brakes, horns, rear - view mirrors, mufflers, and stoplights, they cannot be licensed.

Cameron Police Chief John Shearin said his department has received complaints about local mini-bikes, and city patrolmen will issue warnings at first. Shearin said he hopes parents and young riders will comply with the law voluntarily.

State law provides penalties for violation of the equipment requirements.

Wright said the mini - bikes may be operated on private parking lots, in fields, or other areas that are not considered a public right-of-way.

Chief Shearin said "the people who are selling mini-bikes are misrepresenting them to buyers when they don't inform them about the law."

COMMENT: Following is text of a talk presented Cameron Rotary Club by Frank Luecke, Herald editor-publisher, last week. It was suggested it should see print. Readers may judge its merit.

LET REASON LEAD. . . .

"I CAN FORGET THAT I AM CALLED A TRAITOR" . . . .

So spoke Sam Houston, governor of Texas in 1861 when a secessionist Legislature took his leadership from him and sent him into retirement because he rejected allegience to the Confederacy.

"I LOVE TEXAS TOO WELL TO BRING STRIFE AND BLOODSHED UPON HER," he said, going back to Huntsville where he died in 1863.

This friend of Andrew Jackson, this "magnificent barbarian", is known to have carried Texas to a republic, thence to statehood as a senator. He was also prophetic.

The Confederacy lost, as its agrarian economy pre-ordained. Texas itself wrote a Constituion and governed itself well into the 20th Century in reaction to "carpetbag" rule following the South's collapse.

And Houston knew it would.

Dare I say this insight into unity is a quality which is essential to us all in the 1970s.

A refusal to fragment is our passport to a much wider horizon. Flatly, then, we reject all the divisions, the vertical and horizontal efforts to fracture a whole as great as these United States.

We are to update our own agrarian economy in Central Texas as Texas updates to industrial leadership in this nation, cleft with social and economic adjustment.

We are told in the underground press distributed at Austin and Houston, quote: "YOU NORTH AMERICANS ARE THE LUCKY ONES. YOU ARE IN THE HEART OF THE BEAST."

These are the words of an impresario of revolution, Che Guevara, whose picture adorns the cover of a recent issue of "The Rag."

Are we to listen to a Latin American revolutionary who died in the jungles of some small Latin American nation?

I think not. I hope not.

But a fraction of our activists and devisives listen. And they foment unrest among the larger numbers who seek knowledge on our campuses, but who do not share our confidence in a great nation. And they shake our confidence in rejoinder with issues we have been too busy to confront.

And the activists and their infinitisimal following claim insights neither founders of Marxist Revolution nor creators of our Constitution and Bill of Rights enjoyed. They are busy playing God when we surely prove in our technical enlightenment "WHAT FOOLS WE MORTALS BE."

Vast difference separates the divisive leader from the true leader. You can equate from your own experience some of these.

May I add:

ONE -- A sense of humility as well as humanity. Man never had it so "good" or so "bad" at one time in history. And we in some sense of unity must determine: "Which is it?"

TWO -- A sense of continuity. An attempt is underway to rewrite history as surely as the Kremlin rewrites history with each change of authority.

THREE -- A sense of realism. Tons of pages are in print of the hippy and the reactionary, who, worst of all, give up on themselves as viable, living entities.

FOUR -- A sense of justice. The immoderate responses clanging from campus to ghetto, from Wall Street to Mississippi, from the street to the union hall are only responses to responses, not issues. We see, rather, a sense of inflamed injustice.

FIVE -- A sense of confidence. Is there a nation so swashbucklingly successful in its own recent past which so intimidates itself in so few years? Can we hear a symphony rather than raucous sections? Perhaps ever so breifly, we once did.

SIX -- A sense of purpose. Are we to answer the encomium of the folk song: "SAVE THE COUNTRY! SAVE THE PEOPLE!" when we have minimum self control?

I submit these "senses" a leader knows, as well as he smells, touches, sees, hears and tastes. These former "senses" are of reason.

Funds Approved For Milam Water

Funds totaling $748,600 have been approved by Farmers Home Administration for the Southwest Milam Water Supply Corporation, Rep. W. R. Poage announced Wednesday from Washington.

The funds include a loan for $600,000 and a grant for $148,600 for a water system to serve 447 rural families and businesses in the southwest part of Milam County.

When completed, the system will be the largest in the county, with lines extending into Williamson, Lee and Burleson counties.

"Final planning for the water system is in progress right now," Henry N. Ivey, Milam County FHA supervisor said.

Formal incorporation of the new water supply system was completed in May and a board of directors was elected. B. B. McAnulty is president; Claude W. Spence, vice president; and John D. Yoakum, secretary - treasurer.

Directors are Ralph Leech, Mrs. Vera Fisher Shafer, Billy Boyd, Walter Wentzel, Ernest R. Cates, and Billy C. Graham.

Communities to be served by the new water system include Hanover, Hoyte, Sandy Creek, Black Jack, Chriesman, Bowers Lake, Forest Grove, Tanglewood, Bushdale, Mt. Zion, Conoley, Pleasant Retreat, Gay Hill, Salty, and Shiloh.

The well and water tower for the system will be located near Milano. About 169 miles of pipeline will be required to take the water to customers.

Commodity Move OK'd

County Commissioners voted Thursday to move the Commodity Food Distribution Center from its present location across from the courthouse to the building adjoining the county Health Unit on South Houston.

The Commodity Distribution office will occupy the building where the Preston Royal Theatre operated for a short time. The county will also rent a building on the corner of Houston and E. Gillis for food storage.

Judge Harden said the move would probably not be made before October 1. USDA officials approved the new location in a meeting with county officers last month.

Trustees Adopt 'Disruption' Rule

Cameron School Board members worked through a full agenda Thursday night, adopting a new budget, electing personnel, and opening bids.

Trustees also voted to relax dress code for students at the start of school in view of the extreme heat in the buildings and to add a policy on disruption of school activities.

(For details on budget, see related story, this page.)

Supt. D. R. Dodson told trustees that classes will start at 8 a.m. and school will dismiss at 2 p.m. "until there is a break in the heat," adding that the two top floors of Yoe High and the west side junior high classrooms are "extremely hot."

He recommended that casual dress for students be allowed while the shorter school day is in session. A lively discussion followed, with opinions for and against the proposal.

The motion accepted by voice vote was that as long as the short hours are in session, students will be allowed to wear casual dress, with the superintendent and principals deciding what "casual" is.

DISRUPTION POLICY

Board members voted to make this addition to official board policy:

"Effective with the beginning of the 1970-71 school term the following is added as Item 12, page 9, Discipline in School, Official Board Policies and Regulations of the Cameron Independent School District, dated 1968.

"Disruption of School or School Sponsored Activities:

"No student enrolled in the Cameron Public Schools shall take part in a disruptive activity on or near the various school campuses.

"Any student charged with violating this policy shall be given due notice and shall be afforded a hearing before the Board of Trustees, and, if found guilty, shall be expelled for the remainder of the semester and no credit shall be granted to the student for the semester's work."

What Of The Child ? . . .

The rumbles already begin about proposal to consolidate Milano and Cameron school districts.

And we have yet to hear few if any property owners and patrons who already are forming opinion ask: "What of the child?"

First of all, Milano would not give up all its school in such a consolidation. It would be wise to maintain a grade school within the community, which easily could serve the first six grades better by more attention at this critical stage within the facilities in the Milano system.

No one picks on Milano or Buckholts or Rogers or Rosebud or Lott or any other school system caught by population loss. It is merely that a community school system, dependent or independent, can't give the student at the junior high and high school level what he needs in this particularized era of education we are all in.

Rural schools are not isolated because they are rural, no more than the rural student is isolated from the events which shape his world. It is only fair to consider how he can best compete in a fantastic world of technology, higher education and competition.

It may be that delay slows the change, but try to vote down what comes through the television tube and direct distance dialing and through-traffic on Milam federal highways and all the other means influencing the Milano student as well as any other student in his world.

First and foremost, concern is over tax base, which is understandable, and partial loss of a community center, which is the school. But what of the real loss if the student enters this metropolitan world without enough technology or enough academic training or enough commercial background to get a decent job or to enter a good technical school or state college.

Before this proposal waffles into the standard objections the Cameron district passed through years ago, think of the child.

His needs are no less in Milano, from which about 99 percent of each class moves each year, than in Cameron which proposes help.

What of the child?

Build With Basics Like Water . . .

It is likely the largest water corporation in this part of Texas. Southwest Milam Water Supply Corp. is recipient of $748,600 to serve 447 families in Milam and adjacent sections of Burleson and Williamson Counties.

Anyone native to those areas of Central Texas will appreciate the prospect of adequate water at their rural homes, just as their students welcome opportunity to improve their schooling.

Organizers of this water district are to be congratulated on establishing a basic stabilizer to Milam area population. Everyone knows of the decline of rural population to city employment, better services in incorporated communities, as well as farm decline.

It will mean 169 miles of pipe to reach the families already committed to the water system. It joins similar systems developed in all parts of Milam County and adjacent Falls and Bell Counties. It is easily one of the finest things for this county in many years. It is that basic. And people will build where the basics of life are met.

Now . . .

These latter senses, these sympathetic senses are of little use alone. They are means which have raised man's irrefutable stance above the lower orders, even if his head clogs with smog and his feet stand in mire.

The fact is he knows his ecology is awry and that his cities are scandalous.

But the fact is he forgets that he can undo what reaction and emotion say he cannot.

I submit movements, of whatever kind, of whatever derivation, which see things only as they are, facts in isolation, facts without context, are leaderless. These movements want abandon; they want irresolutic"; they want anarchy. And an ultimate anarchy is unnatural. People will put it down.

Thinking Americans, and there are more Americans "thinking" at this moment, know this country is not the end product of civilization, of the broadest development of Western Man or even of man himself! But is social dictatorship or bureaucratic democracy?

Think, people! What alternatives of order can you offer? That is the call in leadership. And if you offer alternatives, give them by example. Don't mouth them. Lipservice is what brings hardcore activity among us. Hardcore activity impresses and youth follows. Would you not rather they follow you? And if you would not, why not?

If we ask ourselves before the reaction, we might offer an alternative better than we see or fear.

The man who admits fear is an honest man and is capable of the best in him. The man who blusters and cries out in anger is a false hero, grasping a cause to hold himself together. He is no less afraid than any man, but is subject to his senses, rather than this context of "sense."

Revolution misdirected resolves nothing, though it would seem otherwise. A classic failure, probably because its idealism fed the American experience, is the French Revolution.

A Citizens Committee guillotined all the monarchy and nobility of France who did not flee. And these Citizens, the Jacobeans continued a blood bath by guillotining their own numbers. In little more than a generation, Napoleon Bonaparte, a Corsican, gathered a Republican Army and conquered most of Europe, failed of Russia, but not before crowning himself emperor and placing family and generals in key positions in half of the governments of Europe. He restored monarchy in the French Republic's name.

How many "free" Frenchmen died in the snows of Russia and on the battlefields of Europe? Were they better off than Frenchmen 120 years later dying in Colonial Indochina, abandoned to us in the 1950s? Did the French Revolution ennoble France?

Those who will not think, who only "sense" are subject to those who command such "sense"lessness into some new form of misdirection. History says it and we deny this continuity of fact during inordinate change.

We are not to compete; we are to shun work. It is interesting that one of the most popular anti-heroes of the 60s was Humphrey Bogart, dead since 1957, a screen tough guy, adventuring nihilist whose movies some campus towns showed for consecutive weeks. Did students bother to ask what was most important to Bogart, the "on-screen" tough guy and "off-screen" leader of the Hollywood ratpack? They would have learned, if they asked, that Bogart valued his competence as an actor above his apparent rebellion in society.

We are to be individuals, rejecting by self-destruction what this generation unfortunately inherits and relistically sees. And yet, we have been singing songs entitled "No Man Is An Island" for years, in personal memory. What bombast and hypocrisy!

We are to live now. True. That is where we are and where most of us are tomorrow. But what of the yester-nows and future-nows?

Houston and Guevara are contrasted for a number of reasons. Houston went into the wilderness of undeveloped Texas to carve an empire and ended up helping create this industrializing colossus where we live.

Guevara went into dictatorial Cuba, where he was equally successful in helping create a new order, albeit contrary to ours. And he returned to his native continent to continue the attack, his personal revolution, against the disarray of underdeveloped Latin countries.

The difference? One man stayed to build and was reduced to momentary failure by his own people, a 19th Century giant. And Guevara died, as he lived, a professional revolutionary, killed by some Latin country's troops, but a hero in death even to some of our students, while Houston was a failure in secessionist Texas' view.

The question is will Guevara be as much a hero a century from now as Houston still is regarded a century after his death? Will our world, not only of Texas or nation, have so changed to equate a revolutionary with a builder? Will history be as objective with Guevara, an able poseur of the popular cause, as it has been with Houston, whose foibles, a part of the man, are legend? Will our values have so changed in 100 years that a Guevara will be eulogized out of perspective as hundreds of millions eulogize Lenin, Mao and Ho Chi Minh this day?

Will values so change that raising a mass to a level of existence precludes ultimately raising men, of equal numbers, to some level of free mind?

A leader supplies alternatives to what youth apparently accepts either as futile in a competitive system or inevitable in a mass society.

How well they forget a man's stomach is only a starting place of his digestive tract, not a starting place for reason and value.

Even as we industrialize Texas, we wonder toward the time our industrial society heads: Whether "WE EAT TO LIVE OR LIVE TO EAT."

Will we read a new version of the "Rubaiyat" or a regeneration of Rousseau's "Social Contract."

Are we to build to decay in senseless futility or rebellion? Or are we to build toward a broader view of ourselves in encompassing a world, not as empire of Houston's day or of mass, minimal salvation in Guevara's, but as a higher order as we, today, are above our wild-eyed progenitors of unrecorded past?

I think the need is here to know that we, Western Man in conflict with history of 19th Century East and West, are able to reconstitute what is important and to reject the rest.

This country is a composite, a synthesis of all our problems. Our progeny seem to find no solution in continuity. They want everything a-new, when, in fact, the alternative is a 19th Century response to laissez-faire capitalism, which is dead as it should be.

A real sense of community is a community of solution to these problems of history, a regard for individual value despite the proliferation of individuals. It is a time when we must say what we know, not only listen, because no answer is "pat" as it appears to the young and the disenchanted.

This sense of community is desperate for individuals who can synthesize viewpoint and problem for reason, not rebellion. The group is the problem, not the solution.

CAMERON'S PARADE OF SPORTS

GREYHOUND RACING - Nig Moody, who lives near Cameron, has been raising greyhounds for 57 years. Moody says there is no greater thrill than to see good racing greyhounds coming down the track, running as hard as they can because they like to run. There is no cleaner sport than greyhound racing, Moody says, because there is no one but the greyhound on the track during the race. Pictured are four outstanding greyhounds owned and raised by Moody. From left, Moody's Choice, Walk Lady, Nig's Bonnie and Nig's Eleven. Moody's Choice, best greyhound ever raised by Moody, competed on the best tracks in the nation, and has not been beaten. She has earned a total of $30,000 in her racing career. Nig's Bonnie, Nig's Eleven, and Walk Tall (not pictured) have all earned substantial sums in their racing careers. These greyhounds are sired by Rocker Man, and imported Australian greyhound, and are 10 years old. They are retired from racing. Moody says that when a race meet is held it usually lasts 30 to 40 days and one night's earnings are given to charity. These gifts run into hundreds of thousands of dollars each year.

BEEF CATTLE COURSE

A computer cow game and representatives from 19 breed associations will be program features of the 20th annual Beef Cattle Short Course, Aug. 17-18, at Texas A&M University. Upwards of 300 cattle producers are expected to attend, says L. A. Maddox, Extension animal husbandman.

WEEDS CUT PRODUCTION

Texas rangelands should produce about 90 percent of the forage required for livestock grazing; but, says G. O. Hoffman, Extension brush and weed control specialist, they are producing only about 50 percent. Weeds are a contributing factor in the deficiency, says Hoffman.

Going To School...

Big Step For Little People

AUSTIN

It's back-to-school time again for more than 2.7 million students in the Texas public schools.

For about 224,500 of the, it will be "first - time - to - school." Most of these will be first graders, but some 30,000 will be 5 - year - olds in the new state-suported kindergarten program.

Among numerous changes in Texas schools this year, the teachers will begin work a bit earlier, and students in some localities will begin classes earlier.

The school year will have 180 classroom days instead of 175. Teachers will be on duty for 10 more days of non-teaching work during the year to help with school opening and closing, and to receive in-service instruction that will help them to teach better.

Despite these changes, the experience of heading off to school for the first time won't be much different for this year's 6 - and 5 - year - olds than it was for their parents. It's a giant step for little people.

To help parents make it easier

To help parents make it easier on their youngsters, the Texas State Teachers Association offers some basic tips in a leaflet titled "To Help the Child, and Parents Too!" Here are some of the pointers:

REGISTRATION PROCEDURE

Any child who is 6 years old on or before September 1 may be admitted for the 1970 - 71 school year. (Special requirements for enrollment of certain 5-year-old children in public school kindergarten for 1970-71 have been publicized locally.)

The child's birth certificate must be presented at time of enrollment. Some schools, in the interest of good health, require that the child be vaccinated against smallpox and immunized against diptheria, whooping cough, and tetanus.

Other information which the school will need includes name, occupation, place of work, and phone number of the father: name, address and phone number of the family doctor: and the family's home address and phone number.

HOW PARENTS CAN HELP

When parents meet their child's principal and teacher for the first time, they may offer these suggestions:

*Teach you child the safest way home.

*Teach him (or her) to go directly home from school without loitering on the way.

*Remind him not to go with strangers.

*Give your child definite duties at home and see that he performs them.

*Help him to establish good listening habits.

*See that your child gets enough sleep.

*Provide your child with a good breakfast each morning.

*See that he is happy before he leaves for school.

*Teach your child that policemen are his friends and that he should go to them when he needs help.

*Teach him to dress himself properly.

*Teach him to have confidence in his teacher.

*Provide opportunities for your child to be away from his mother for short periods of time before he starts to school.

*Teach your child to respect the property rights of others.

*Allow your child to do as much for himself as he is able to do.

*Show an interest in what he has to tell you about his work and play at school.

*Help him see likenesses and differences in objects and forms.

*Encourage him to have playmates.

*Help him learn habits of promptness, obedience, and respect for authority.

*Read to your child.

*Take him to places of interest such as the zoo, park, and library.

*Label his personal belongings with his name and address.

*Praise your child frequently; help him to feel successful.

THE FIRST TEACHER

The child's first teacher has an enormous responsibility and opportunity to help shape his or her future life. The teacher will help the child to:

*Have opportunities in group learning, work, and play.

*Think for himself.

*Become interested in the world about him.

*Treat others with consideration and fairness.

*Feel at ease with others.

*Build a good foundation for future learning.

Parents are always welcome to visit their child's school. When visiting, they should stop first at the administrative office and meet the principal.

When it is necessary to bring a child's lunch or other supplies to school, they should be left with instructions at the school office. Classes should not be interrrupted while in session. Arrangments should be made in advance for conferences with the child's teacher.

Parents are invited and urged to join the PTA, attend its meetings, and take an active part in the work it does to support the school.

The TSTA leaflet points out that the parents' attitude toward the school and the teacher will be observed -- and often copied -- by the child. Parents therefore should avoid criticizing school or teacher in the child's presence. Instead, they should do what they can to solve such school - related problems as conflict with another child, a difficult activity, or a school rule that the child does not understand.

SCHOOL WANTS TO KNOW

The school principal will want to know -- in advance if possible -- when a family moves to a new address.

A child with a cold, fever, sick stomach or other severe ailment is better off at home than at school; however, parents should encourage and require good school attendance by their children. A written excuse from the parents may be needed when the child returns from an absence.

When child-school problems of any kind arise, the parent should feel free to discuss them with the child's teacher.

Cold Cuts Offer Easy, Inviting Summer Meals

You just can't beat cold cuts for variety, convenience, downright goodness or price, Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, says. Cold cuts are all meat, neatly sliced and packaged and ready to serve for easy, inviting summer meals.

"Since cold cuts are completely edible, except perhaps the casing on some, there is no waste and no bother with trimmings," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Some varieties show a rather high cost per pound, but this is not a true guide as to the cost per serving since the humber of servings varies with the type or variety."

The outdoor cooking season is also in full swing and as long as this continues, forequarter beef cuts will be the better buys she noted. In general, look for the best beef values on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, short ribs and round steaks and roasts.

"Retail pork prices are unchanged for the past three weeks but are higher than last Spring," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Best pork values generally are found on shoulder roasts and steaks, picnics, hams, en-cut loin roasts and chops and pork liver."

Fryers are an excellent protein food choice, pricewise, and quality of birds couldn't be better, she ssid, adding that egg supplies are ample with medium size eggs being featured at very attractive prices in some stores.

According to Mrs. Clyatt, a number of fruits are in moderately heavy supply, and early varieties of apples have been steadily increasing. This is the time for an old-fashioned green apple pie, she suggests.

"Cantaloupe prices remain at attractive levels and their quality is excellent," Mrs. Clyatt reported. "Peaches, nectarines, grapes, plums, bananas, cherries, watermelons and pineapples are reasonable and quality is good."

Fresh vegetable items in good supply at the most economical prices include eggplant, potatoes, head lettuce, celery, cabbage, carrots, dry yellow and red onions, summer squash sweet corn, cucumbers and green bell peppers, Mrs. Clyatt said

Views From Candidates

Bentsen

HOUSTON

"One of the most perplexing problems facing mankind is the contamination of the space immediately surrounding us; day by day, the air we breathe becomes more and more deadly," Lloyd Bentsen declared in proposing a new approach to pollution.

The Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate recommended that the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center expand its scientific research into the environmental control field.

"It would be most reassuring to know that the same brainpower which solved the problem of getting man to the moon and back again safely was devoting part of its efforts to research that could make it safe for man to remain on earth," Bentsen explained.

He proposed that the Spacecraft Center's role and scope be expanded, declaring that its manpower should be increased if necessary to permit such research without hampering the space program.

His proposal was made in letters to U. S. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences, and to U. S. Rep. George Miller, chairman of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics.

MSC is "truly one of our great national assets", Bentsen said.

"To disperse the tremendous talent concentrated there or even to curtail its scientific activities would be both shortsighted and tragic." Bentsen declared.

"Its vast research capabilities constitute, in my opinion, our brightest hope for developing solutions to the awesome problems of environmental control."

He noted that NASA's "brilliant scientists are accustomed to solving space problems and doing so under the pressure of deadlines".

He added that the first step, which could lead to "a giant leap for mankind in this field," already has been taken by MSC scientists who have begun measuring and mapping some of the most troublesome concentrations of air and water pollution.

Bush

Congressman George Bush said last week the reason Americans paying more for products today is that "the big spenders in Washington refuse to put the federal government on a pay-as-you-go basis."

In a statewide radio broadcast Bush, candidate for the U. S. Senate, said, "Year after year, from 1961 through 1968, they spent much more than the government received in taxes, a total of about 64 billion more. That is where our present inflationary spiral comes from--from reckless and irresponsible mismanagement of the nation's economy by the men who were voted out of office in 1968."

Bush said, "Now we're fighting the after-effects of this wild spending spree. For the first time in many years we have an administration in Washington that's determined to make the federal government live within its means. It is hard and unpleasant to clean up after somebody else's mess, but it has to be done. We have to get our economic house in order and our national budget closer to balance, so that we can resume our real growth.

"By real growth, I mean something quite specific," Bush said. "I mean that families should have the full benefit of the extra dollars earned by hard work. That benefit shouldn't be stolen away by the invisible tax of inflation.

"I don't want a dime sent to Washington for any job that we here in Texas can do better ourselves. For this reason, in Ways and Means Committee I've introduced revenue sharing legislation which would mean a great deal for the state and local governments of Texas. Under this plan, the amount of money returned to the state without federal restraints would grow to five billion dollars by fiscal year 1976."
